
THEMATIC LESSONS – ROOTS OF THE PRESENT

Roots of the Present, Assicurazioni Generali's archaeological collection, will promote a new initiative to highlight the Italian cultural heritage and to bring the youth closer to the attractive world of archaeology. In April and May 2017 the Museum guided tour will be enhanced by a series of thematic lessons explaining the history and culture of Roman civilization in a simple and fascinating way.

The lessons are designed according to the age of students and will be given by a group of archaeologists from Federico II University of Naples. Taking the cue from the finds exhibited in the Museum, lessons will focus on Ancient Roman's traditional life, architectures of domestic spaces, public areas and funeral rites. A specific lesson will be given on Trajan's Column and the Imperial Fora that can be seen from the museum.

The lessons are scheduled for Italian schools and are free upon booking:
